

Congress of the United States
House of Representatives
Washington, DC 20515-0305

January 10, 2022

Chairman Bennie Thompson
2466 Rayburn House Office Building
Washington, D.C. 20515

Dear Chairman Thompson,

I request the Select Committee investigating the events at the U.S. Capitol on January 6, 2021, identify the time and manner in which Members of the House of Representatives may review the testimony taken by the committee.

House rules and regulations clearly permit all House Members to attend depositions conducted by the committee.<sup>1</sup> Additionally, all committee materials including deposition records and transcripts are the property of the whole House, entitling Members to their review.<sup>2</sup> Since Members have not thus far been notified of the time and date of the completed depositions and have therefore not attended, accommodations should be made for Members to review the transcripts or electronic records.

Given that the reputations of multiple Members of Congress are being subjected to the drips and drabs of testimony being selectively released to the media, I look forward to this accommodation being made with haste.

Sincerely,

Andy Biggs
Member of Congress

---

<sup>1</sup> 117 Cong. Rec. H41 (daily ed. Jan. 4, 2021).

<sup>2</sup> Rule XI, Clause 2 "Committee records" included in Rules and Practice: House of Representatives (117th Cong.).